

Dear Hiring Manager,

I trust this correspondence finds you well. I am writing to express my keen interest in applying for the internship opportunity at PTTRNS.ai, spanning from the end of August until February. As a dedicated student pursuing a career in Front-End and Full Stack development, I am enthusiastic about joining your esteemed company to acquire invaluable practical experience and make meaningful contributions within a dynamic work environment. I have had my eye on this opportunity for the past 2 years and I would really love to join your company.

Currently enrolled at Fontys University of Applied Sciences, I am specializing in Media Design and Smart Mobile. However, over the past four semesters, I have developed a profound passion for Front-End development. Throughout my academic journey, I have honed essential skills such as teamwork, professional orientation, and a comprehensive understanding of research, development, UI/UX design, and various other facets. Nevertheless, I am eager to leverage these skills in a real-world setting, collaborating alongside industry professionals.

Having conducted thorough research on your company, I have been immensely impressed by your dedication to innovation and how closely your work values align with my own. I would be glad to gain firsthand experience by working in conjunction with experts in the field.

Given the opportunity, I would be sincerely grateful to showcase my enthusiasm and dedication to becoming an integral part of your team.

Enclosed with this email, you will find my detailed CV, encompassing my academic achievements, educational background, and relevant work experience. Should you require any additional information, I am more than willing to provide further details.

Thank you for devoting your time to review this email and for considering my application.

Yours faithfully,
Veselin Nanov
